

Nutrition Response Testing®

What is it? Will it help me? What can I expect?

IS THIS YOU?...

You have one or more health conditions that won't go away.

You're unable to get the results you expect or hope for from doctors and/or alternative practitioners.

Health conditions significantly affect your life, career, family and/or personal finances.

You realize nothing will get better until the source of the problem is found and corrected.

If so, then you're in the right place:

Your chances of recovery have never been higher.

The body has the full potential to self-heal when given the opportunity.

What is Nutrition Response Testing®?

NRT is a clinically proven, non-invasive, system created by Dr. Freddie Ulan to pinpoint the root causes of ill health & provide solutions to self-heal. NRT is quite likely different from any healing modality you have experienced.

Will NRT help me?

The first thing to determine is whether or not your case is well-suited to the work of NRT. If you are ready to invest in your health & follow the process, NRT can open the door to a safe & lasting recovery, even in cases where everything else has failed.

What can I expect?

We will have questions for you before & during testing. The muscle testing is simple & direct. Your body provides the information & feedback needed. We will determine where the problems are & select nutrients, herbs & supplements to provide the materials needed to support self-healing. Most patients report amazing results within the first month of care.

Committing to care over time will give you the opportunity for best health.
